Special to The Courier.

LEADING LEGISLATION.—Home rule for cities is proposed in a bill which will soon make its appearance in the Legislature. The bill will give municipalities the right to adopt their own charters, and to make such amendments to it as desired by the electorate. The measure would abolish, in a large measure, the control of the Legislature over municipalities.

The Clark bill providing commission government for Third Class Cities was reported favorably by the Senate committee. The only change made designed to prevent the forcible annexation of borough to form a Third Class City. The initiative, referendum and non-partisan but provisions are retained despite the fact made by Senator Beldeman of Dauphin, who favors a small Council, Mayor, Controller and Treasurer being elected as at present. The bill will be on final passage in the Senate Monday night.

The Senate committee has decided to recommend favorably the envelope system of voting which would enable a voter to mark his ballot at home. The Post bill to apportion the State in legislative districts was negatively reported to the House.

Senator Crow's bill permitting proportionate of counties having more than 150,000 population, including Fayette, to receive a representative in the Act of 1911 under which Allegheny county now operates, passed the Senate yesterday.

The House and Mining Committee heard arguments on the McDermott bill to prohibit the use of electricity in gaseous coal mines. Representatives of operators contended that if electricity was prohibited it would prevent them from entering into competition with mines in States which permit the use of electricity and force production of coal to show that during 1912 4.42 per cent. of the accidents were due to electricity all being in workings where the bill permits electricity to be used in rooms, where its use would be prohibited.

After a stiff fight in the House yesterday, the Snyder teachers' tenure of office bill, introduced by the State Teachers' League composed of 40,000 teachers, passed finally by a vote of 115 to 65. The measure provides that teachers who hold permanent certificates and have taught for four years in one school district shall be permanently employed by the district. The teacher's salary is not to be reduced nor the position changed except by a two-thirds vote of the board. The bill will now go back to the Senate where it originated on account of amendments of a trivial nature having been made in the House.

Without a dissenting vote the Senate today passed finally the resolution to amend the Federal Constitution providing for the direct election of United States Senators, making Pennsylvania the thirty-fifth State to adopt the amendment.

Senator McNichol of Philadelphia, this morning introduced a bill to provide for the nomination of members of the United States Senate. The bill provides for the same election system as used for the election of Governors, namely, by the joint action of candidates by State conventions, and also providing for the filling of vacancies by appointment by the Governor.

The Senate this morning refused to reconsider its action of yesterday in defeating the Moore bill, providing for the changing of the Pittsburgh school district from first to second class.

The House passed today a bill giving the State Highway Department the right of eminent domain to take up any road in the State for public purposes.

A bill limiting the hours of employment of miners about anthracite mines was passed by the House.

INDIAN CREEK SLIDE IS CLEARED; 2 TRACKS OPEN*First Trains to Pass Over Westbound
Track Near Indian Creek Carry Flood Supplies.

Provisions and supplies for the flood efforts in Ohio are now passing over the westbound track of the Connelville division of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad at the point near Indian Creek that was blocked for several days by a landslide. Section hands and equipment under the direction of Division Engineer Philip Petri cleared the track yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

One of the first trains to pass over the cleared track was a 44-car train of provisions and repair material on the way from Oakland, Maryland, to Ohio. This train was immediately followed by a 30-car train carrying telegraph poles, piles and other repair material. This morning a trainload of steel rails passed over the division to be used in repairing the damage done to the Baltimore & Ohio tracks in the flood stricken districts. Several hundred laborers are being transported over the road to Ohio. This morning a car went through on No. 11, and last night two cars of foremen were sent west over this division.

Railroad officials state that all of the railroad companies are moving their construction camps and repair gangs from eastern points to the west as quickly as possible.

PASS GRAFT REVEALEDInterstate Commerce Commission
Urges Many Indulgences.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—An astonishing revelation of petty grafting by judges, State, county and municipal officials, including Legislators, in accepting cases from Colorado railroads is revealed in the report of the Interstate Commerce Commission's report issued today. The commission reported that the Colorado, Southern and Denver & Rio Grande railroads for granting passes, and the Colorado Fuel & Iron Company, Victor American Steel Company, Colorado Portland Cement Company, United States Portland Cement Company and the Great Western Sugar Company for accepting favors.

In January, 1912, 7,200 tip passes were issued by one railroad, all to persons ineligible under the law to receive them," says the report. "From January 1 to June 30, 1912, 2,200 card passes were issued by one railroad to public officials and shippers. Public officials did not hesitate to request passes when they were not volunteers and the personal requests of judges upon common carriers expressing a sense of obligation both before and after their elevation to the bench showed in letters the Commission has on file. The railroads explained the passes were issued in exchange for political favors."

NO APRIL FOOL JOKE, THISFinder of Pocketbook Picked Up Little Fortune.

BROWNSVILLE, April 2.—The pocketbook that someone picked up here yesterday was no "April Fool" joke, because it contained $610, and it was lost a business handkerchief containing $413. Mrs. Mary Stankovic of Linn Station carried her cash wealth with her. She came here yesterday to attend the eight-hour day labor celebration and in the day of the celebration she lost the money. She had lost $1,023, offering $100 reward if the valuables were found. It is believed the finder of the pocketbook is congratulating himself that he was not "stung" by the April 1 pocketbook.

MRS. PANKHURST DEFIANTDeclares She Will Go Any Length to Escape Punishment.

LONDON, April 2.—Just a minute before she stepped into the prison's box at Old Bailey and in a clear, ringing voice pleaded "not guilty" to the conspiracy charge against her, Mrs. Pankhurst, leader of the British militant suffragettes, told the United Press that she fully expects to be convicted.

"I will stop at nothing to beat this case or escape if imprisoned," she said. It is believed that the present case was brought at the personal direction of King George and that the crucial test of militancy in Great Britain has arrived. Mrs. Pankhurst was later released on bail pending a further hearing.

DISLOCATES THIP.Mrs. John Parkhill of Greenwood Is Injured.

Mrs. John Parkhill of Ninth street, Greenwood, fell Monday night on Eighth street and it is feared she suffered a dislocation of the hip. Mrs. Parkhill was with her husband and was returning from the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. Scott Dunn in Greenwood and in front of the home of Mrs. Harriet Miller she tripped on a damaged place in the pavement and was thrown to the ground.

This morning she was removed to the Cottage State hospital and the X-ray was used after which she returned to her home.

Orders Work on Tariff.
WASHINGTON, April 2.—Less hot air and more action in dealing with the tariff situation was demanded by President Wilson this morning, when he sent for Representative Underwood and requested that he get busy immediately in considering the tariff question.

No Hospital Patients.

No patients were admitted to the Cottage State hospital over night.

DUNBAR BOY TELLS A VIVID STORY OF ESCAPE IN FLOOD*In Flood-Swept Dayton, He Leaps to Wires When
House Goes.*CLINGS TO A POLE FOR HOURS*With Swelling Waters Beneath Him
He Crawls Two Blocks After Day
Breaks and Is Rescued; Taken to Cincinnati, Is in from Exposure.

The most vivid story to reach here of the disastrous Ohio floods, with their attendant sorrows, is contained in a letter received by Mrs. Barbara Penlan of Dunbar from her son, Daniel, who went through such severe exposure in flood-swept Dayton that he has since been confined to his bed.

His struggle for life, in which he leaped from a second-story window to the wires for hours before finally crawling along them for blocks before he was rescued in a boat, and the many terrible sights he witnessed are recounted in the following letter:

"The high waters swept over the town Tuesday morning at 2 o'clock, taking everyone by surprise while the people were asleep in their beds. The flood was awful so terrible that I can hardly tell it.

"I was boarding in a three-story frame house on Fifth street, near the passenger station in the downtown section of the city, where the water rose highest. Like everyone else, I was asleep when the waters rushed in on us at the rate of 25 miles an hour. The flood came so quickly that I had just time to grab my clothes and leap from the window to the telegraph wires before the house reeled away. Its foundations had been carried away at the corner.

"I held to the wires for a time that seemed an eternity, fearing that every moment would be my last and that I would drown before I could get to the ground. I managed to crawl slowly to a telegraph pole. There I was able to unwind some tape from about the wires and tie myself to the pole, where I clung until day light.

"During the night my experiences were horrible. Houses were breaking and drifting about as they were torn from their foundations, and the cries of people being carried past the pole upon which I was tied ascended above the noise of the raging waters. "When dawn began to break I was able to see a little. I was able to crawl along the swaying wires for two blocks. There I was rescued and taken into a boat. There were several other people in the boat and several times before we reached safety it threatened to capsize.

"My heart nearly broke because of pity for those more helpless than myself. While I was on the pole scores of women and children, and many, too, cried for help from the tops of buildings. Many jumped from comparative safety into the waters and were drowned. "When our boat reached dry land, I was carried to one of the rescue stations, and I saw with a number of other refugees to Cincinnati where I was put to bed in a hotel. I am still there, although still weak.

"During the night the flood was nearly five miles wide, and many people were still confined in buildings without food, suffering for want of nourishment and from the cold.

"The number of deaths throughout Ohio is not known. The papers can only guess at it.

"I intend to come home as soon as I can."

The letter was written and mailed on March 28.

RAILROAD MEN STRIKETrackmen on Pennsylvania Middle Division Demand Higher Pay.

ALTOONA, April 2.—Disatisfied with their pay a large amount of trackmen on the middle division of the Pennsylvania railroad between Harrisburg and Altoona, struck yesterday. This is a continuation of the strike which occurred on the Pennsylvania lines in New Jersey several weeks ago and which has been spreading west.

The men received $1.66 for a day of 10 hours. The strikers have declared that they no longer will work for that wage. Demands are expected to be formulated and presented by the leaders later.

BURGESS MAKES REPORT.There Were 183 Arrests in March and Cash Totals $212.60.

Burgess J. B. Evans made public his report for the month of March today. There were 183 arrests, 12 were discharged, 114 served time, 47 paid fines and 13 were locked up by constables.

Cash receipts totaled $212.60, apportioned as follows: Fines, $190; 11; license $14; permits, $2; fishing sewer, $2.60; other sources, $1.

RAILROAD IS SUED.Uniontown Man Wants $1,000 for Cash on His Head.

UNIONTOWN, April 2.—One case was started in civil court today, to hold that of Walter G. McCrory of Uniontown against the Baltimore & Ohio railroad. McCrory asks $1,000 damages as the result of having his head crushed while sitting in a passenger coach at Uniontown on December 15. After a door had slammed, sending broken glass over McCrory's head, the passenger dived the injury with his head. When he awoke he found his head injured and on December 17 he saw a physician. The railroad's defense is that McCrory's injury was serious because of neglected treatment and through no fault on its part.

RALEIGH, N. C., CHILD

Made Strong and Well by Vinol.
When we tell you that Vinol is the best remedy in our whole stock for making weak, puny little children strong, robust and happy, we are only telling you what has been proven by hundreds of mothers.

Mrs. W. Strotter, Raleigh, N. C., says: "My little boy has been taking Vinol to build up after a severe spell of sickness. It has done so much good by restoring his appetite and building up his strength. I think Vinol is the finest tonic ever prepared and I am telling everyone about it."

What Vinol did for this little girl is well known to her mother and all who have seen her. She has been ailing child because of liver troubles and the tonic that Vinol contains—that is why the child is so healthy and happy and so full of life and color. It is pleasant to take and we guarantee that the results will satisfy you—money back if they do not. Get Vinol at any drug store or by mail from the Vinol Company, New York City. Vinol is sold in the West Side by Fred H. Harmsen.

P. S. If you have Eczema try our Sato Salve. We guarantee it—Advertisement.

A COAT FOR SUMMER.

The most desirable of all the season's coats are the soft, unlined, blanket affairs in light colors, and simply tailored seams and linings. One of these, sketched here, shows the material in white with checks of turquoise blue and bound buttonholes of the same shade. Buttons of ivory, lined with turquoise, are set far to the side, so that when buttoned the garment fits closely around the hips.

EXAMINATION OF MEN AFTER IMPORTANT JOBS
Over 100 Applicants for 26 Mills Inspectors are Being Held in Pittsburgh.

The examination of applicants for the 26 positions of Bituminous Mine Inspectors of Pennsylvania began at Pittsburgh yesterday morning with 193 candidates in attendance. The local or Pennsylvania inspectors of Andrew W. Calverley, General Manager of the Buffalo & Pittsburgh Coal & Iron Company, President of the West Penn, Secretary, R. M. Pollock, H. C. Brown, and Robert Mervin. The examinations are written and morning and afternoon sessions will be held daily until Friday. In about two weeks the Board will have the written examinations will take a three days oral examination to be held in the same hall at the same place.

The Board of Bituminous Mine Inspectors in this State are applying must be at least 30 years of age and not over 50, unless he is at present holding a position as inspector. Every applicant must have had at least 19 years' practical experience in a bituminous coal mine, and of which must be previous to the present. It must answer correctly at least 90 per cent. of the examination questions, and abide strictly by the rules and regulations adopted by the Board of Inspectors. To a practical bituminous mine the questions are all pertinent, and were selected by the Board of Inspectors for that purpose two weeks ago.

"At the last quadruple examination there were 146 applicants, only 40 of whom passed. All of them, it is believed, got positions, as several of the inspectors who were first appointed either resigned or died. It is of the present applicants do not pass the examination, the Board will have to hold another sitting, so as to keep the list of positions filled. When the examinations are completed the Board will certify the names of the successful candidates to the Governor and he will make the 26 appointments. The positions pay $2,000 a year each, and expenses, the terms of office being four years. All of the present inspectors are taking the examination."

Mr. Calverley considers the present inspectors a fine set of men. "Their work," said he, "especially during last year's strike, was very satisfactory. I am proud of the number of men employed than any other industry in the State. Government statistics prove this, although the general impression is that the proportion is greater, caused by doubt, by the fact that when there is a mine disaster it usually has a big death list. And another thing I would like to impress on the public: The mine owners are anxious that their plants be in first class condition at all times. It is to their interests, from a selfish point of view, it is to the public interest, and they are largely responsible for the rigid laws and examinations relative to Mine Inspectors and Inspectors."

A HAPPY, LAUGHING CHILD IN FEW HOURS

It Cures, Feverish, Tongue Coated or Sick, Give "Syrup of Figs."

Mothers! Don't scold your cross, peevish child. Look at the tongue! See if it is white, yellow and coated! If your child is listless, drooping, isn't sleeping well, is restless, doesn't eat heartily or is cross, irritable, out of sorts with everybody, stomach, sour, feverish, breath bad; has stomach-ache, diarrhea, sore throat, or is full of cold, it means the little one's stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with waste matter and need a gentle thorough cleansing at once.

Give a teaspoonful of Syrup of Figs, and in a few hours all the clogged up waste, undigested food and sour bile will gently move out and out of its little waste-clogged bowels without nausea, cramps or weakness, and you will surely have a well, happy and smiling child again shortly.

With Syrup of Figs you are not drugging your children, being composed entirely of Luscious Figs, senna and aromatics it cannot be harmful, induces their dearly loved its delicious taste.

Mothers should always keep Syrup of Figs handy. It is the only stomach, liver and bowel cleanser and regularizer needed—Little children today will save a sick child tomorrow.

Full directions for children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the package.

Ask your druggist for the full name, "Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna," prepared by the California Fig Syrup Co. This is the delicious tasting, gentle and reliable. Before anything else offered.—Advertisement.

QUEER WAYS OF THE ARAB.
His Methods of Life and His Contempt For Womankind.

An Arab on entering a house removes his shoes, but not his hat. He mounts his horse upon the right side, while his wife sits on the left side. In writing a letter he puts nearly all the compliments on the outside. His head must be wrapped up warm, even in the summer, while his feet may well enough go naked in winter.

Every article of merchandise which is liquid he weighs, but he measures wheat, barley and a few other articles. He reads and writes from right to left. He eats scarcely anything for breakfast, about as much for dinner, but after the work day is done he eats down to a hot meal swimming in oil.

His sons eat with him, but the females of his house wait till his lordship has done. He rides a donkey when traveling, his wife walking behind. He laughs at the idea of walking in the street with his wife or of carrying his wife for a moment. If he is an artist he does work sitting, perhaps using his feet to hold what his hands are engaged upon.

He drinks cold water with a spoon, but never bathes in it unless his home be on the seashore. He is rarely seen in the street, is devoted to his kindred, has little curiosity and no inclination, no wish to improve his mind.—Everyday Life.

FEEDS THE BRUTES.
London's Restaurant That Caters to Domestic Animals Only.

One of the most interesting restaurants in the world is one in which the only diners are domestic animals. The restaurant is located in Westminster, London. The sign on the window reads: RESTAURANT FOR DOMESTIC ANIMALS.

ENGLISH MEAT ONLY. FRESH
This restaurant is arranged so that the domestic animals which patronize it may be perfectly comfortable while they are getting their meals. Those that wish to do so may sit down while eating. The women who serve the diners are very fond of animals and know the wants of each particular customer. One of the regular callers at the restaurant, a dog, prefers having his meals in private, so instead of entering his luncheon in the restaurant he walks from his home to the place every day, buys his luncheon and carries it home. He pays his own bill at the end of each week, carrying the money tied in a little wallet around his neck.

Cats, guinea pigs, goldfish, parrots, monkeys, squirrels and goats are also provided for in the restaurant. There is a branch of the establishment at 123 York road, Battersea.—New York Herald.

Clogs.
Clogs, against which the Lancashire mill girls are rebelling, were one time worn by women of all classes. The more refined variety of the shoe had a thin wooden sole, which was cut transversely in two pieces, attached to each other by a single. Dainty brass and polished leather apertures gave a finish to the article. Anne Bracegirdle, the most beautiful actress of her day, was a wearer of clogs. Horace Walpole relates in one of his letters that "Mrs. Bracegirdle breakfasted with me this morning. As she went out and waited her dress she turned to me and said, 'I remember at the playhouse they used to call for Mrs. Oldfield's chair, Mrs. Barry's clogs and Mrs. Bracegirdle's pattens.'"

COLDS AFFECT THE KIDNEYS

Many Connelville People Have Found This to Be True. Are you writhed in bad weather? Does every cold settle on your kidneys? Does your back ache and become weak?

Are urinary passages irregular and distressing? These symptoms are signs to suspect kidney weakness.

Weak kidneys need quick help. Doan's Kidney Pills are especially prepared for weakened kidneys. Connelville people recommend them.

Mrs. E. Knight, Francis Ave., Connelville, Pa., says: "For ten years kidney trouble kept me in misery and the pains in the small of my back were at times almost unbearable. It was when I got up in the morning and the least work tired me. Head-aches and dizzy spells were common and often my sight blurred. When I could get cold, it settled in my kidneys and I was annoyed by the kidney secretions. Having Doan's Kidney Pills recommended, I commenced using them, and in a few weeks they relieved me. Two boxes made a cure and I have had no cause for complaint since."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Postpaid at Connelville, Pa. New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.—Advertisement.

Headache?—It's Your Liver
Too Many People Take Headache Powders When a Liver Tonic Is Needed.

Try Olive Tablets—The Substitue For Calomel.
Anyone who takes Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets the moment he suspects his liver or bowels will never have headache.

There is no necessity when you take Olive Tablets, of following them up with nasty, sickening, griping salts or castor oil, as you should after taking calomel.

Olive Tablets do not contain calomel or any other metallic drugs; they are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil, sugar, and other pleasant and never cause weakness.

Thousands of people take one every night at bedtime just to prevent disorder of the liver, constipation, bad breath, pimples, headache, etc.

Dr. Edwards' Calomel's old enemy discovered the formula for Olive Tablets after sixteen years of practice among patients afflicted with liver and bowel troubles.

Try them for a week. Take one on retiring night. "Every little Olive Tablet has a movement all its own." 10c and 25c per box.

Change of Company Name

On April 2nd, 1913, the name of "The Central District & Printing Telegraph Co." (Bell System), was changed to "The Central District Telephone Co."

The former name, which has been in use since the introduction of the printing telegraph in 1874, was not believed to identify the company with the service which it now renders—and, for the convenience of public and company alike, the new name has been adopted.

From the above date all communications should be addressed and all remittances made to The Central District Telephone Co. No change in the present contract or other relations is necessitated.

ALVEY A. ADEE, WHO WILL REMAIN IN STATE DEPARTMENT.

ALVEY A. ADEE

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Alvey A. Adey, Second Assistant Secretary of the United States Department of State, and recognized as an invaluable attaché of the department for many years, will remain in office under the Wilson administration. Already he has served twenty-six years as an assistant secretary, six years longer than his predecessor, William Hunter. Mr. Adey, who is seventy years old, has been in the diplomatic service since 1876, when he was appointed Secretary of the legation at Madrid, where he acted as chargé d'affaires at different times. He has acquired an intimate knowledge of all the big international events of the last quarter of a century.

THE MAKING OF WORDS.

Curious Origin of Some of Our Most Common Expressions.

In the "Romance of Words," a publication by an English author, much space is devoted to "haplogy," which means a gradual or unintentional loss of an unaccented vowel at the beginning of a word. This kind of word shrinkage is more common than one might suppose.

Sometimes the middle syllable of a word will be altered to the point of extinction. From Mrs. Magdalene, court and penitent, comes the word maudlin. Scrothin is contracted into scold, the old French word paralytic becomes paley; hydrophobe becomes droopy; and the word procreator becomes proctor in English. Bethlehem Hospital for Lunatics, established in London, came to be telescoped into bedlam, and as Oboloneley came to be Chumley and Majorbunka Marabunka. Peel is for appeal, mend for amend, lone for alone, fender, whether before a fireplace or outside a ship, is for defender; fence for defense, hint for attain.

The word peach, commonly regarded as English, this slang, goes back to the time of Shakespeare and is related to impeach, though used to indicate informing against an accomplice. The word cad is for Scotch cadille, once an errand boy, now familiar in connection with golf. Caddie is from the French word caddis, meaning a guide or younger brother.—Indianapolis News.

SURGERY ON THE SKULL.

The Operation of Trepanning Was Common in Ancient Times.

While the medical profession is agreed that some rough form of surgery must have existed from very ancient times, it has always been a matter of wonder that so complex and delicate an operation as trepanning should also be one of the oldest.

There is authentic record of this operation dating back to the time of Hippocrates, who wrote treatises on fractures, dislocations and wounds of the head, wherein he described the method of procedure to be followed in the case of a fractured skull. His idea was to cut away a piece of bone so that the pressure on the brain might be relieved.

The annals of this era also show that a life was used for this purpose, which, at a time when modern anesthetics were unknown, must have been, to say the least, painful.

According to Holmes, the operation of removing pieces of bone was performed long before historic times. The effects on the skull are easily seen after death and are visible as long as the bones are preserved. From inspection of certain skulls of the later stone age in ancient Britain there has been derived the conclusion that some of these had undergone the operation, which must have been performed with a stone implement.—Harper's Weekly.

Good Excuse.

"Why do you keep me waiting on this corner two hours?" demanded the irate husband. "You said you were merely going to step in to see how Mrs. Gable was."

"Well, she insisted on telling me."

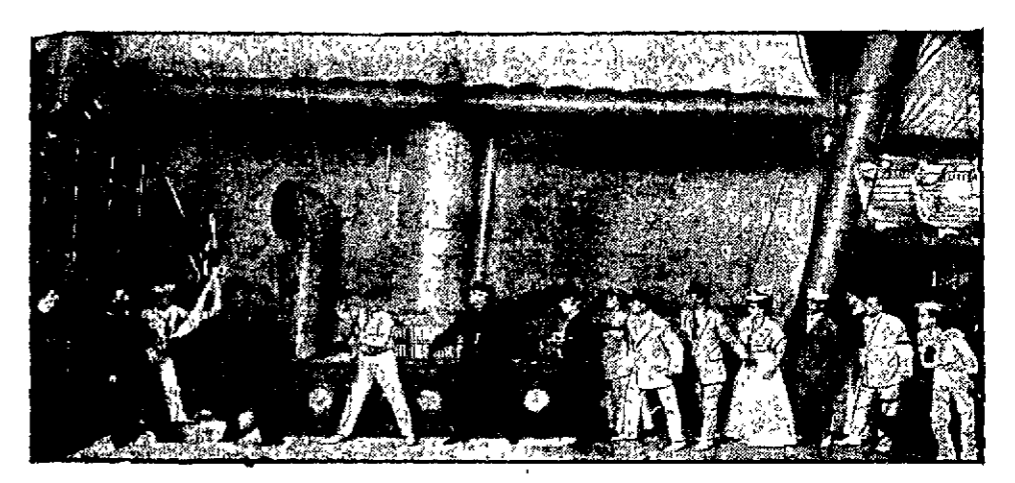

His Preference.

"Oh, for the wings of a dove!" cried the poet when the unloved one said, "Order what you like," answered the prosaic person with a clean shave, "but let the water to bring me the breast of a chicken!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The Stage and The Players.

A Scene from "Brewster's Millions."

THE SOISSON.

"BREWSTER'S MILLIONS."

The production of "Brewster's Millions" at the Soisson theatre, matinee and night, Saturday, April 5, is an event of more than passing interest, as it marked the introduction, into the strictly dramatic field of Frederic Thompson, the creator and builder of New York's great Hippodrome with its wonderful productions, and Luna Park, the stupendous and magnificent resort on Coney Island. The fame of Frederic Thompson has resounded from sea to sea because of what he had done and it has all been so well done that it stands as a monument to his cleverness and ability.

In selecting a dramatization of McCutcheon's fascinating story of "Brewster's Millions," with which to enter the dramatic world Mr. Thompson has found a vehicle worthy his endeavors and one which will sustain his reputation. Those who have read the book can appreciate it as a great play. So odd, so entirely different in theme and treatment from any other work of fiction, and yet so possible so plausible, so cumulative and so intensely interesting "Brewster's Millions" makes a distinct triumph in late dramatic achievement. Scenically and mechanically it is a Frederic Thompson production. No more need be said. That means it is the best that can be made, to which must be added the additional favor of his remarkable ability as a producer. The cast is an excellent one. The star part—that of Montgomery Brewster—is played by Walter Allen, one of the very best of the younger generation of American actors well and favorably known throughout the country. The supporting company includes Catherine Cosgrove, John Caruthers, Howard L. Dorsey, Pearl Shay, Vic Newman, Allen K. Reese, Marion Buell and other well known players.

"THREE TWINS" will be the offering at the Soisson theatre, Tuesday, April 8, and is said to be one of the smartest musical comedies that has been produced in many years. The book is by Charles Dietson, lyrics by O. A. Hauerbach, while Karl Hoschna is responsible for the music.

"Three Twins" is one of the largest musical companies on the road, requiring two baggage cars and three coaches for the transportation of the company. During its long run in New York, "Three Twins" was endorsed by the entire New York press. Mr. Ashton Stevens of the New York Journal said: "Three Twins" is a credit to Broadway."

There are a great many song hits, including "The Yama Yama Man," "Cuddle Up a Little Closer," "Boo Boo Too Hoe," "They Are All My Girls" and "The Little Girl Up There."

STOCKYARDS WIVES TRAINED.

Chicago Packers Adopt Novel Expedient For Employees.

Chicago packers have discovered a new and novel method of making for the greater efficiency of their employees. Their scheme is to provide the workmen with the most efficient work obtainable.

Armour & Co., Swift & Co. and several other large packing concerns have subscribed to a fund through which a model tenement flat has been opened in the stockyards district. Here factory girls by day and schoolgirls at night are taught the principles of all branches of efficient housekeeping, from scrubbing floors to preparing economical and palatable dishes.

An Odd Legacy.

THE FOUR UNIONS PLAN INSTITUTE FOR SCOTSDALE

District Meeting of the W. C. T. U. Will be an Interesting One.

MT. PLEASANT IS PROMINENT

Once More on Program to Furnish Music for Assembly of Alverton, Tarr, Scottdale and Mount Pleasant Temperance Unions; Other Notes.

SCOTSDALE, April 2.—Much interest is being taken in the annual district institute of the Women's Christian Temperance Union which meets in the First Baptist church of Scottdale on Tuesday, April 3, when the unions of Mount Pleasant, Tarr, Alverton and Scottdale will discuss work that is now going on. The devotion at 9:30 in the morning will be in charge of the Mount Pleasant Union, and they may be depended upon to furnish a short program that will open up the way inspiring for the latter work.

"The Work of the Soldier and the Sailor" will be a topic to be discussed, the discussion to be opened by Mrs. George T. McNeil of Alverton, and continued by Mrs. Ellen Wright of Alverton, Mrs. Josiah Reynolds of Scottdale and Mrs. H. E. Brothers of Mount Pleasant.

This will be followed by a symposium: "How We May Gain New Members," by Mrs. J. W. Paw of Alverton; "How We May Increase Department Work," by Mrs. C. A. Colborn of Scottdale; "How We May Interest Young People," by Mrs. Mae Garber of Scottdale; "How We May Get Church Members to Join," by Mrs. J. E. Hutchingson.

The organization of the district will be an important matter during the forenoon session, for while the district has been doing its work it has been without a central organization, and it is proposed to elect a President, two Secretaries and a Treasurer at this time.

Luncheon to all those attending the convention will be served at the noon hour by the committee of ladies headed by Mrs. C. D. Reed and aided by Mrs. Mrs. G. H. Reed, Mrs. J. H. Reynolds, Mrs. Martin Detwiler, Mrs. W. G. Cope, Mrs. M. L. Brown, Mrs. William Burdette, Mrs. George H. Lockard and Mrs. John Miller. With this committee in charge a very plain menu is assured. The afternoon session will follow at 1:15 o'clock, Mrs. P. T. Smith of Tarr leading the exercises.

A model W. C. T. U. meeting will next be put on by one of the leading members and this promises to be one of the most unique and interesting features of the entire institute.

A high quality of music will be one of the particularly interesting and inspiring things about the institute this being certain since the Mount Pleasant Union will have charge of this part of the program. Their part will include a quartette composed of Miss Margaret K. Reed, Mrs. J. H. Reynolds, Mrs. J. L. Ruth and Mrs. George W. Stoner, with Mrs. J. L. Undergraph as pianist.

A paper will be read by Mrs. Savilla McAlister of Mount Pleasant on "Temperance and Mission Work" and a paper on "The Relation of Food to Temperance" will be presented by Mrs. Charles W. Stauffer of Scottdale. A solo by Miss Anna Stoner will be one of the features of the afternoon session.

A GREAT LECTURE.
The lecture on China by Dr. Isaac Taylor Headland, at the First Presbyterian Church, under the auspices of the Woman's Club, on Tuesday evening, was one of the most vivid, inspiring and instructive lectures ever heard in Scottdale, and from beginning to end it came with all the life of a romance. The lecturer, who really had much more to do with the progress of the newer Chinese government than he is credited with, told of American diplomacy, and how for three great times America has saved China from being divided up by the hungry powers. The speaker believes that the present administration stands firmly on the same policy that was worked out by Minister Denby, and Rockwell for Secretaries John Hay and P. C. Knox, the policy of the "open door."

There was a large audience present and for nearly two hours the speaker attracted attention to one of the clearest presentations of the missionary subject without the speaker saying much directly about it.

BASKETBALL.
Pittsburgh's star players in action on the basketball floor of Ellsworth auditorium will be the attraction on Friday evening at 8:30, when the Scottdale team meets the Pittsburgh players here. The lineup for Friday evening will be as follows:

Mr. and Mrs. William Seaman spent Monday in Pittsburgh on business and calling on friends.

Mrs. George A. Walker was called to near Mann's Choice, Bedford county, on Monday by the death of her cousin, William Grazer. He died suddenly from apoplexy, just as her brother, Clark Grazer, died some days ago.

Mrs. Lottie Harper has returned from a visit with her sister, Mrs. W. F. Henderson, of Greensburg. The family has moved from Jerome to Greensburg, where Mr. Henderson is now superintendent of a large coal company.

Mrs. Alexander McIntosh and daughters, Bertha and Ruth, of Cleveland, O., were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Truxal of Iron Bridge for several days.

S. M. Beatty returned home Monday evening from Pittsburgh, where he was attending the funeral of his brother, John H. Beatty, who was killed at Lakeville, O., on Friday, while as superintendent of a wreck train he was endeavoring to repair damage done by the floods.

Mrs. William Reed of Mount Pleasant, was calling on Mrs. W. A. Shupe on Tuesday.

Mrs. James W. Coffman returned from Pittsburgh Monday, where she was visiting her father, Henry Sheets who is very ill. Mrs. Coffman returned to the city on Monday evening.

Mrs. Henry W. Stauffer returned on Thursday evening from the Greensburg hospital, where she was operated on for a cataract on one eye.

Ellis and George Gault, teachers in Lower Tyrone township, were in town Monday evening. Mrs. Sadie Hunt of Edward Hunt of East End, Pittsburgh, was visiting Mrs. Sadie Hunt for a few days this week.

Miss Olive Rhodes has returned to California State Normal School after spending the Easter vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Rhodes. Mrs. W. J. Dooley, Mrs. E. F. Dooley and Miss Mary Dooley were Pittsburghers who were here yesterday.

CANADIAN RAILROADS

Unprecedented Activity Is Anticipated During Present Year.

Of the railways in Canada, says the Cleveland Iron Trade Review, the bulk of the mileage is owned and operated by three companies, and the Canadian Pacific railway mileage includes 8,740 miles of main line and branches owned, and 2,872 miles of leased and proprietary lines, and lines operated under contract. The Grand Trunk railway includes 2,342 miles of lines owned, of which 706 miles are double track. The Canadian Northern railway has a mileage of 3,672 miles in Ontario, Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta. Mackenzie, Mann, Co., besides owning this line, control and operate several others. Canadian government railways include the Intercolonial and the Prince Edward Island railway, with a total mileage of 1,732 miles.

In Alberta, during the past ten months, a total of 638 miles has been added. The most remarkable figures are those of the Canadian Northern railway, which at the end of 1911 had 329 miles of railway in the province. At the end of October last, the length of its main and branch lines totalled 782 miles, an increase of 453 miles for the year.

Judging from the work planned by the three great railways in Canada for the year, 1913 will witness a railroad development unprecedented in the history of the Dominion. The most important line under construction at present is the Grand Trunk Pacific. The first consideration of the company will be to complete the British Columbia section of its main line. The gap between the two sections in that province is now only 426 miles, and work on the filling in of this has already commenced. The head of steel is now only 125 miles from the Pacific Coast, east of Prince Rupert. Between that point and Alderney, several steel bridges have to be erected. The line will be taken into Brandon, Winnipeg, and the Pacific coast. The heavy expenditure involved in the completion of the mountain section.

WAS NEEDED

An Institution of Wide Scope in Money Matters.

The conversion of the Young National into a trust company gives Connellsville and surrounding territory just the strong all around financial service that has been needed for some time. The Young Trust Company is an institution whose charter permits it to serve in an capacity of trust. It is a legal depository for trust funds which are kept separate from its other assets. In speaking of the aims and objects of the company, the other day, Secretary Flete said: "It is our ambition to make 'The Young' in deed as well as in name a TRUST company—to safeguard the interests of our customers at all times—to make them feel that placing their business in our hands is an act of an advancing to them as it is to us and that in 'The Young' they will always have a faithful advisor and friend.—Adv.

Dominant Factors in Morgan Bank To Follow Dead Financier's Policies

Labor World Notes.

The Trades and Labor Council of Nelson, B. C., is planning the erection of a labor temple to cost $26,000.

Reports from cities in all parts of the country indicate that there will be a great deal of building done this year.

The United Mine Workers organization of Iowa is planning the erection of a legal department to prosecute personal injury cases of members.

A bulletin by the Department of Agriculture states that wages paid to field laborers in this country have increased 3.2 per cent last year and 7 per cent during the last two years.

Reports from the Painters' International Union show that something like $15,000 a month was paid in 1912 to beneficiaries of deceased members, and other thousands were disbursed in sick claims and funeral benefits.

The International Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employees has purchased two buildings for headquarters in Detroit, Mich. One building will house the printing plant, the other the business office of the union.

At the next Trades Union Congress in Great Britain a movement will be inaugurated for the establishment of a trades union bank on co-operation lines, and the projectors have no doubt that the enterprise will take definite shape.

There are approximately 2,500 women employed at night in Elgin, N. Y., fruitcans, and they receive from $8 to $10 a week. They are obliged to report at 7 o'clock at night and work until 6 o'clock in the morning.

Announcement has been made that the International Typographical Union is soon to erect an addition to the Union Printers' Home at Colorado Springs, Colo., at a cost of $60,000. The work of erection will be started soon and the new building will be used as an amusement hall.

Prices of farm products have fallen in Little Rock, Ark., owing to the advent of the Farmers' Union as a factor in the local grocery trade. The Little Rock store was a success from the day it started, and it is probable that the Farmers' Union will open stores in other cities of Arkansas.

The labor temple at Vancouver, British Columbia, recently erected, and which, with the land on which it stands, represents an outlay of more than a quarter of a million dollars, is owned by the organized labor of Vancouver, the trades and labor council carrying the controlling interest.

ROCKWOOD.

Representative C. J. Hemminger of Fairleigh, was a business visitor at Rockwood on Saturday of last week, having been called to Somerset on Friday for consultation in regard to the illness of a near relative but the patient died a few minutes before he arrived.

All three of the Rockwood hotels received licenses last Saturday. George Bisol of Meyersdale was a guest of Rockwood friends last Sunday.

The Right Way To Banish PILES

Thousands Bless Dr. Leonhardt, the Physician Who Discovered a Common Sense Remedy.

If you think that the surgeon's knife is the only method of escape from the misery of piles, it's because you haven't heard of the new treatment known everywhere as Dr. Leonhardt's HEM-ROID.

The Doctor's treatment is mostly internal. By experimenting for years he discovered the exact cause of piles and then went further and compounded a remedy that would remove the cause.

Dr. Leonhardt wants every sufferer to benefit by his discovery and so that there will be no doubting or delay he has authorized A. A. Clark and all druggists who handle HEM-ROID to guarantee it to do as stated or money back.

On that honorable basis every sufferer should secure a package of Dr. Leonhardt's HEM-ROID today. 24 days' treatment $1.00.—Advertisement.

Colonel TODHUNTER of Missouri

By RIPLEY D. SAUNDERS

Copyright, 1911, by the Bobbs-Merrill Company

PROLOGUE.

Ladies and gentlemen, permit us to present Colonel Todhunter of Missouri and his home folks. They're our kind of people—just the plain, homelike, everyday sort, you know, with whom you can summer and winter and whom you can get to know and to like and to feel for when they run into trouble. There's plenty of love and romance in this story, with politics of the sort that will never go out of date—or let's hope so, anyway. There's nothing of the problem story in this tale of the colonel and his friends and foes; just a plain, straight, all the way through story of the honest, old-fashioned kind that's worth reading.

CHAPTER I.

Colonel Todhunter Campaigns Among the Confederate Daughters.

COLONEL THURSTON T. TODHUNTER was undoubtedly the distinct embodiment of that picturesque, but American type, the Kentucky born and Missouri bred, as he entered old Judge Bolling's law office in Ninesh and saluted his white haired occupant with a cordially impressive wave of the hand in friendly greeting.

It was the morning of the day preceding the return from St. Louis of the Hon. William J. Strickland, law partner of Judge Bolling and now an avowed candidate for the Democratic primary nomination for governor of Missouri, and Colonel Todhunter's business aggressive bearing was due to his delight that his lifelong friend had at last yielded to popular pressure and made open announcement of his candidacy. The scent of political battle in the Strickland camp was hot in the colonel's nostrils, and he snuffed it with a keen eye.

Tall and erect, Colonel Todhunter carried his spare but sturdy frame with an ease that somewhat belied the grizzled gray of his hair and the white of his soldierly mustache and old fashioned "imperial." One could not easily have failed to recognize him for just what he was, a lineal descendant of that colonial Virginia stock whose grandsons followed the pioneer trail that led from the Old Dominion, first to North Carolina, then to Kentucky and Tennessee and thence to Missouri, a stock that has remained distinctively American since the day of its first taking root in American soil.

Colonel Todhunter held his cane on Judge Bolling's office table as he enered and executed his gesture of courteous salutation. "Well, judge," he said jubilantly, "the fight's begun, and we've got to rally around old Bill Strickland to a fare you well, huh? Head, huh? I ain't a-gonna be content with nothing less'n whop it! That's the spirit, Stephen K. Yancy, out to a frazzle, huh?" Old Judge Bolling smiled at the colonel's zealous handling of the imminent combat. "You're right, Colonel Todhunter," he agreed. "And the sooner we get plump into the middle of the fight the better, sir. It can't begin too soon to please me."

"You can't fool me!"

Colonel Todhunter nodded. "Then his gray-blue eyes twinkled significantly. "Judge," he said, "the Ninesh Daughters of the Confederacy are givin' a plect down at Indian Springs today, and they're givin' to get a glimpse at a dollar a head for the benefit of the Confederate Soldiers' home at Indian Springs, huh? I reckon all that ain't no particular news to you, but I thought maybe you'd enjoy givin' down there with me, huh? I'd be tickled to death to have you."

Judge Bolling's lips twitched. "You old devil, you! You couldn't any more keep from campaigning among the daughters than a yearling colt can keep from kicking up its heels in the pasture, and you know it. You can't fool me."

"What I can't do and what a yearling colt can't do are two mighty different things, Judge," answered Colonel Todhunter. "But I ain't connected with old Bill Strickland's campaign in no official capacity that I'm aware of, and if I see it to turn a trick on my own hook, that's nobody's business but mine, huh?"

Then the colonel chuckled. "I'll tell you one thing and that ain't two: I'd rather have a woman's promise to make her husband vote for me or my candidate than to have a man's word on a stack of Bibles a mile high, huh. It's only up to the man to keep his word. But it's up to the woman to prove that she can manage her husband. And she'll do that, huh or die in the attempt."

Old Judge Bolling laughed. "Well, Thura," he said, "I've just been fooling with you anyway. Mrs. Todhunter herself stopped at our house this morning and took Mrs. Bolling along with her, and she made me promise to come later, as it's all right. They'll have to excuse for saying that was there in Colonel Strickland's interest, so you and I can go down to Indian Springs with a perfectly easy conscience."

An hour later old Judge Bolling and Colonel Todhunter emerged upon the picnic grounds in company, having driven down in the colonel's buggy. Mrs. Todhunter, a white haired old aristocrat of the antebellum type, advanced to meet her husband and his friend. If Mrs. Todhunter had a fault it was that she tacitly regarded all Ninesh as being vulgar to her social superiority, and she herself somewhat of a snob, the ruling monarch of some little principality. But this manner was not apparent in her bearing toward old Judge Bolling, whom she knew as being of her own caste.

"I'm very glad you've come, Judge," she said laughingly. "And especially right now. It may take you and Colonel Todhunter both to make our Mary and young Tom Strickland behave themselves, sir. Tom has already kidnapped Mary away somewhere after I put them to work spreading tablecloths, and I've been waiting all sorts of venescent for both of them. I don't approve of Tom's behavior at all, Judge."

"It pains me to disagree with a lady, madam," replied the white haired old Judge gallantly, "but I must say I approve of your conduct in getting Miss Mary Todhunter off to himself at every chance, huh?"

"That's all very fine, Judge," said Mrs. Todhunter, laughing and shaking her head, "but Mary has no business permitting Tom Strickland to monopolize her. She came out here with Stanford Tucker. I wouldn't blame Stan in the least if he got ugly about it."

Then Mrs. Todhunter laughed and pointed an accusing finger. "There they are now, looking as if butter wouldn't melt in their mouths. Won't you go over there for me, Judge, and tell Tom Strickland to behave himself and send Mary to me right away? There's no earthly use in Colonel Todhunter going, because neither one of them would mind a word he says." Old Judge Bolling, laughing, moved off toward the young couple.

Mrs. Todhunter turned to the colonel. "You see, I know you like a book, Colonel Todhunter," she said, her eyes twinkling. "You think everything young Tom Strickland does is just right, and you'd stand up for him quicker than his own father. And as for Mary, she can't twist you around her finger any time. Don't think I place any dependence upon you where they are concerned, sir."

Colonel Todhunter smiled calmly. "I ain't usin' you, Mary," he retorted. "I'm the first place, I approve of Tom's falling as deep in love with Mary as he knows how. In the second place, interloper in these here sentimental affairs is a mighty ticklish business, and I'm here at this picnic to have a good time. I'm a-goin' to have it, too! Saying which, he bent a hasty retreat.

But he had hardly succeeded in picking a section of the picnic crowd between himself and Mrs. Todhunter when a young girl came running along his trail, breathless, and with mischievous eyes.

"Mrs. Todhunter wants you to come right back to her, colonel," she announced. "She's short on men to help her, and she's awful busy. Wants you to come right away, sir."

Colonel Todhunter glanced whimsically at the messenger. "Ain't that just like a man's wife? She didn't want Judge Bolling when she saw him. Oh, no! It's me she wants. I'll be there."

Colonel Todhunter picked up the grounds picked out for me right now. "Then he turned to the amused girl. "Thank you, Miss Louise," he said gratefully. "Please tell Mrs. Todhunter I'll be there in two or three minutes."

Steadily but a little distance ahead, he saw Tom Strickland putting from Mary. They were a handsome couple, the colonel's daughter an exquisite type of the well born southern girl, her hair and eyes a rare pure brown, her skin of almost baby fairness, a proud little mouth, a loyal, loving, and a young man and woman built young country bred gentlemen, his eyes a clear blue, his hair a sunburned fellow, his mouth and chin clean cut and firm. Colonel Todhunter approved heartily of both.

As Mary left her companion and went to join her mother, a second girl, with bright eyes and a sunny smile, came to the colonel's side. She was of a different type, a plebeian beauty, black haired, with passionate eyes, full red lips, a suggestion of rich animal life in her movements.

As Mary left her companion and went to join her mother, a second girl, with bright eyes and a sunny smile, came to the colonel's side. She was of a different type, a plebeian beauty, black haired, with passionate eyes, full red lips, a suggestion of rich animal life in her movements.

You ought to be ashamed of your self, Tom Strickland," she said in a low tone, a little break in her voice. "You let me drop like I was something you despised just the minute you caught sight of Mary Todhunter. I wouldn't treat a dog that way, Tom."

There was something pitiful in the way the speaker's eyes confessed her liking for Tom Strickland. Colonel Todhunter knew her well. She was the granddaughter of old Tate Doggett, who had been a private soldier in a Confederate regiment during the civil war. She was a member of the Daughters of the Confederacy to the esteem in which he held.

This was more than a contest, said to infer to her darkly beautiful country girl whom old Tate Doggett's son had married in another state had gone away from home one day, leaving her baby daughter behind, and never returned. A picturesque handsome "feminine hero" doctor, who had been peddling his wares in Ninesh for some days and was known to have held bold attentions to her, disappeared at the same time. Little May Doggett, inheriting the same vital beauty of soft roundness, red lips and sunny blue eyes, had grown up.

"Ninesh, defined the shadow of her mother's shame. Tom Strickland stared at the girl, plainly surprised. "Why, Little-May," he exclaimed, "I won't let you think such a thing! I only hurried to say 'Howdy' to Miss Mary because she had just got here. I reckon you must have heard that all the world's done and dinner's about ready, and you're too hungry to wait any longer."

Colonel Todhunter laughed into Mrs. Todhunter's bantering eyes. "Mary," he said, "want you to do a good turn for poor Stan Tucker?"

"Why, what in the world's the matter with Stan? That boy hasn't gone and hurt himself, has he?"

"Stan's having the very old scratch of a chum. He's erlin' to get just a minute's chance to court Miss Angeline Exall, and he's erlin' to let her have it. We got to help him. Don't you need old Mrs. Exall over here for a minute?"

Mrs. Todhunter contemplated her husband sternly. "Well, I do declare, Colonel Todhunter," she ejaculated. "If I was such a dyed in the wool matchmaker as you say, I'd be able to get among young folks at all. You ought to be ashamed of yourself!"

But Colonel Todhunter held his ground magnificently. He knew Mrs. Todhunter. Her bosom yearned even now to succor Stan Birdsong in his sentimental plight.

"You go and tell Mrs. Exall to hurry over here," she said. "It so happens that I do need her to help dish up the dinner. If I didn't I wouldn't send for her to save Stan Birdsong's life." But Colonel Todhunter knew better.

Half an hour later Stan Tucker held him in a grateful embrace. "Colonel Todhunter," he said, "it worked. And I've said some words to Miss Angeline Exall that I've been trying to say for a month, huh. I'll never forget you and Mrs. Todhunter the longest day I live, colonel."

Later in the afternoon Colonel Todhunter suggested to himself. "I'll tell you, huh," he concluded, "if old Bill Strickland ain't solid with the Daughters of the Confederacy here in Ninesh it ain't my fault. I ain't never worked so hard with the women since I courted Mrs. Todhunter—and she shore did make me work overtime and no mistake, huh!"

obvious relief. But the colonel himself shook his head doubtfully. "There ain't no bigger fool on earth, huh," he commended with himself, "than a healthy young chap in his twenties, with a head fuller of women than a spongy is of seeds—and just about as soft as that there spongy is, huh. I don't like to think of Tom Strickland, with Mary on one side of him, and him lovin' the very ground she walks on, and Little-May Doggett on the other side of him and her lovin' him the way she does love him."

Even as he thus mused an approaching light brought a humorous grin to Colonel Todhunter's lips. It was the martial figure of Captain Sam Birdsong of the Ninesh Light Infantry, but without the aggressive support of his regimentals and with dejection in every line. Sam's face was the tragic mask itself.

"What do you want me to do, captain?" vociferated the colonel, mock apprehension in his tone. "What in thunderation is the matter, huh? You look like you'd lost your last friend on earth!"

"Colonel Todhunter," said Sam wistfully, "you're the very man I want to see, huh. I'm a-goin' to ask you to tell me the best way out of it. If you'll be so kind, huh—you havin' more experience in the world than me."

"Sam," replied Colonel Todhunter, "I don't know whether I can or not, but I'll do my level best, huh. Specify your trouble."

"Miss Angeline Exall's man, that's what it is. I can't shake her off, huh. That old woman's worse'n the seven year itch. I can't get rid of her for a minute, Colonel Todhunter."

"What do you want me to do, Sam?" "I want you to see if you can't tell Miss Angeline's man away from her for a little while, colonel; that's what I want. The old lady hates me worse'n a poison, so I don't come right out and face her, huh. I can see right now, plain as the nose on my face, that I've got to leave this picnic without sayin' a blessed word to Miss Angeline Exall, somebody helps me out of the fix I'm in. Couldn't you figure out some way of doin' it, huh? Miss Angeline's man thinks I'm a heap of you."

Colonel Todhunter smiled grimly. "That ain't the way, and that's by dragoon's Mrs. Todhunter into it. I ain't got no business dealin' with it. If I can make the rifle, I'll see if I can't fool Mrs. Exall into sendin' word to bid Mrs. Exall that she needs her to help with the dinner. But you got to hide out when that word is delivered."

"Miss Angeline'll have to go right along with her man if there's any sign of you bein' in the neighborhood, Sam."

Colonel Todhunter, that's a mighty fine idea, and I believe I'll work like a chum, huh. If I get any kind of a talk from Miss Angeline, colonel, I'll be grateful to you all the rest of my born days."

Colonel Todhunter chuckled, but made no reply. The next moment he was headed for the spot where his wife ruled the dinner arrangements.

"Well, well, Colonel Todhunter," that's all right, huh. I'm a-goin' to see you, huh. But I reckon you must have heard that all the world's done and dinner's about ready, and you're too hungry to wait any longer."

Colonel Todhunter laughed into Mrs. Todhunter's bantering eyes. "Mary," he said, "want you to do a good turn for poor Stan Tucker?"

PANAMA-PACIFIC EXPOSITION IN THE MAKING; ARMY OF WORKMEN CHANGING VAST GROUNDS INSIDE GOLDEN GATE AT 'FRISCO INTO MAGIC EXPOSITION CITY.

Workmen Laying Mains, Niche in the Great Statuary Court of Four Seasons and View Through the Portico of the Service Building, First of the Expo Structures to be Completed.

The work is watching the Panama-Pacific International Exposition in the making. An army of men is busy on the site, extending almost three miles along the shores of San Francisco bay. The preliminary work is finished. All fourteen of the main exhibit palaces will be under construction by the coming summer. All will be completed by June, 1914.

W. D. A. Ryan, who has charge of the illumination of the Panama canal, is working out a marvelous light lighting plan in harmony with the glorious color scheme created by Julius G. Ryan. There will be no glare and no dark places or shadows by night.

Eighty conventions already have voted to meet in 1915 in the $1,000,000 auditorium to be built at the new city center. The Welsh National Bisteded is offering $50,000 in prizes for its chorus competitions. Twenty-seven nations already have accepted invitations to take part in the exposition. This best of all records and signifies the great interest with which America's work at Panama is regarded.

To care for motor exhibits, a huge Motor Palace, covering five acres, will be constructed. It is said that no single industry will have ever presented an exhibit so vast in extent. The Machinery Hall, which is to be the largest single building on the grounds, will be 367 feet in width and 970 feet long. All exhibits of machinery are to be shown in this hall.

Beneath a huge tower, the visitor will enter the exposition city through an arcade, 125 feet in height, to the most splendid of the effects of the exposition, the Court of the Sun and Stars, which will stand out among the most brilliant creations of the great expositions of America and Europe. Some of the towers and minarets will rise 120 feet, 100 and 275 feet. Concessions will occupy 45 acres. The Santa Fe railway is spending $250,000 on a representation of the Grand Canyon of the Arizona. A model of the Panama canal will cost $250,000. Japan is to spend a million and a half on her display. France has requested twelve acres.

METAL-MINING HAS HIGHER DEATH TOLL THAN COAL FIELDS

Few Great Disasters, but Accident Percentage Runs Large.

BUREAU OF MINES IS AT WORK

Operators in the Ore Districts are Awakening to the Importance of Reducing the Number of Fatalities. Rapid Progress Made by Coal Mines.

The Coal Age congratulates the Bureau of Mines on its work in collecting the statistics of metal-mining accidents and of the accidents occurring in mines producing nonmetals other than coal.

There has been no public demand that this work should be done, because the mass of people are interested only in great disasters affecting a large number of men at one time. An accident to an individual makes at best an unattractive headline and is relegated to those parts of the daily newspaper which contain advertising announcements. We fear that we would not have had a Bureau of Mines if it had not been for the Monongah, Naam and Cheswick disasters. Even today the coal mining division of that institution is the more popular and significant.

As we suspected, the returns diligently collected by Albert L. Fay for the bureau, show that the loss of life per man employed is higher than in the coal mines. The difference is actually about 12 per cent. And this is true, though there are no signs of coal dust problems to be met and though 40 per cent of the employees work in the open air, exposed to more easily avoidable dangers. The proportion of underground to outside workers in the bituminous mines of Pennsylvania is 17 per cent and in the anthracite workings 23 per cent. It is obvious that all other things being equal, the coal mining industry which exposes the larger number of men to the full risk would necessarily have the greater number of fatalities, should only equal care be taken.

It is unfortunately true that the metal mining industry has not been conducted with the interest in safety which has marked the operations of collieries. This has not been because the metal industry has men of less liberal mold but because the general public, not being induced to consider the risks of metal production has never exercised so continuous a guardianship over the workers thus engaged. The never wearying public which the coal operator has had to face has been likewise and expensive, but it has certainly been of great value and it has sustained admirably the hands of those who among the operating forces were disposed to regard the safety of the employee as one of the leading interests of the officers in charge of a mine.

The coal operator has to look back carefully if he would realize the progress he has made. Some 30 years ago, at the Long Valley coal mine, a mule driver was killed. As they brought his mangled body to the drift mouth, the foreman who had then had not heard of the accident strode up and blurted out "Was mule hurt?" It was his first thought and he narrowly escaped a lynch.

A few years ago, indeed, property was generally esteemed as more important than life as the anecdote of John Fulton at the Johnstown meeting of the Coal Mining Institute of America last summer well illustrated. He stated that on one occasion when a man was killed by a vicious horse, the party in whose care it had been placed, remarked with considerable heat: "I don't care about your man's fatality; what I want to know is how I am going to explain the breakage of the buggy."

"The loss of a life or the occurrence of an accident at a mine throws a dark shadow over the faces of all the officials. If a stranger happens to visit at the time, he is likely to see an important factor in determining the fortune, but if he once learns about it, there is no detail which is overlooked in describing it and it is likely that he will see the report to the inspector before he leaves."

"The key to the situation," said Michael Godfrey, General Superintendent of the Canbyton Iron district, "is the foreman. I hold my losses responsible for every accident which occurs among their men. Their ability to prevent injuries and deaths is an important factor in determining the fortune, but if he once learns about it, there is no detail which is overlooked in describing it and it is likely that he will see the report to the inspector before he leaves."

The point of view here stated is current wherever coal is being extracted. It comes as a shock that in the metal industry such a condition could be regarded as new.

RAISE AGE LIMIT

Men Up to 35 May Take Examination for Mining Engineer.

The United States Civil Service Commission has invited attention to the fact that at the request of the Bureau of Mines, the maximum age limit for the examination for junior engineer (mining), to be held on April 9 and 10, 1913, has been changed from 30 to 35 years in the case of persons who have had actual experience in rescue and recovery work at mine disasters, who have made investigations and reports concerning mine disasters and their possible causes and who have also had training and experience in the wearing of artificial breathing apparatus and in first aid to injured, and who have had the necessary educational training.

The scope and character of this examination and list of places at which it will be held are contained in the Manual of Examinations for the Spring of 1913.

A copy of the Manual and application form for 1913 may be obtained from the United States Civil Service Commission, Washington, or the Secretary of the Board of Examiners, Post-office, Boston, Mass., Philadelphia, Atlanta, Cincinnati, Chicago, Saint Paul, Seattle, San Francisco, Customhouse, New York, New Orleans, Old Customhouse, Baltimore.

No application will be accepted unless properly executed and filed with the Commission in Washington in time to arrange for the examination at the place selected by the applicant. In applying for this examination the exact title as given at the head of this announcement should be used.

$3.50 Recipe Free, For Weak Men

Send Name and Address Today; You Can Have It Free and Be Strong and Vigorous.

I have in my possession a prescription for nervous debility, lack of vigor, weakened manhood, failing memory and loss of sleep, brought on by excesses, indulgent drinking or the failure of youth, that has cured so many worn and nervous men right in their own homes—without any additional help or medicine—that I think every man who wishes to regain his manly power should quickly and quietly, should have a copy. So I have determined to send a copy of the prescription free of charge, in a plain, ordinary, sealed envelope to any man who will write me for it.

This prescription comes from a physician who has made a special study of men and I am convinced it is the surest acting combination for the cure of deficient manhood and vigor failure ever put together.

I think I owe it to my fellow man to send them a copy in confidence so that any man anywhere who is weak and discouraged with repeated failures may stop dragging himself with harmful patent medicines, secure what I believe is the quickest and surest restoration, up to the building. SPOT-TOUCHING remedy ever devised, and so cure himself at home quickly and easily. Just drop me a line like this: Dr. A. E. Robinson, 6000 Luck Building, Detroit, Mich., and I will send you a copy of this splendid recipe in a plain ordinary envelope free of charge. A great many doctors would charge $2.00 to $5.00 for merely writing out a prescription like this—but I send it entirely free.—Adv.

IF THIS IS YOUR BIRTHDAY

You are warned against losing money and against games and speculation. If in employ it will be well for you to consider the possibilities beyond your present situation, for some loss seems to be in store for you.

These born today will be too thoughtful to succeed well in business, but if trained to wait on themselves and to adapt themselves to conditions, they will rise high in positions where pleasing address and diplomacy are the essentials.
